

Call of the Trees

Seven ways you can help

1. Buy the book. Read it slowly. Let the words sink in. Come back and read it again three months later.
2. Become a Friend of Call of the Trees, receive our newsletter and stay connected. Tell us what you found most inspiring about the book. Send us the names of people you think would enjoy the book.
3. Buy multiple books and become a Messenger. Share the book and the website with your friends, family, colleagues, church or spiritual group, environmental or nature club, library, doctor's waiting rooms, tree nursery or garden center, etc.
4. Email us your creative ideas to info@callofthetrees.com about other ways we can get the word out to more people. With your permission, we'll publicize the most inspired ideas on the website.
5. Support initiatives to protect old growth forests and the ancient trees, the elders.
6. Support tree planting and re-forestation efforts, especially in the arid sub-tropical belt around the planet.
7. Start an annual Festival of the Trees in your community to honor and give thanks to the trees. The event can include planting trees, creating ritual and ceremony, forest meditation and yoga, a reading of a tree message. Or it can be a celebration of trees through the arts of poetry, storytelling, music and dance. The creative possibilities are infinite! Then write up a description of your event and submit it to us at info@callofthetrees.com to share with our Friends.

Let's create a Call of the Trees movement!

Thank You!
